Submarine

Harmjoy

I ride with the tide surrounding me
A half hunter, half hunted destiny.
Running silent
Running deep beneath the waves
On the sea floor below
The coral conceals the graves
[Chorus]
I'm on a submarine
In a sea of misery
Crash dive
Crash dive
I surface occasionally
To see who's following me
Crash dive
Crash dive
I left her on the dock waving frantically
No time to talk, heed the call of my duty
Long good byes can
Make me cry and I have to say
There's already salt
Enough is the sea and spray.
I'm running on batteries
Seeking and hiding from enemies
Crash dive
Crash dive
The flotilla that she sent to follow me
Passes slowly up above conspicuously
I rig for depth charge
Living large as best I can
The pressure of love
Is more than my hull can stand.
I long to return one day
Until then I float and pray
Crash dive
Crash dive
