

Heather

The Cufflinks

Heather ties her hair with golden daffodils
And her eyes reflect the sunshine of the sea
Heather smiles and tells me that sheâ€™s feeling fine
But Heatherâ€™s silent tears are always crying

Heather wears a straw white hat upon her head
Ties a satin ribbon underneath her chin
Climbs a purple mountain somewhere in her mind
And finds her shadow near a river crying

Heather come to me, donâ€™t cry, donâ€™t run away
Together thereâ€™s tomorrow, but alone thereâ€™s only yesterday
Heather come to me donâ€™t cry, just take my hand
Love will be the answer to the loneliness we cannot understand.

Heather smile and then Iâ€™ll find a rainbow ring
Iâ€™ll tie it to your finger with a golden string
Promising forever that my love will bring
The sunshine in the morning when I wake you.

Heather, come to me
Heather, donâ€™t you know,
The happy place youâ€™re searching for is in my heart
I love you so.
Heather
Heather
Heather
I love you so
