

Wonderful World (Burnt Friedman Remix)

Nine Horses

It's a wonderful world
And you take and you give
And the sun fills the sky
In the space where you live It's a day full of dreams
It's a dream of a day
And the joy that it brings
Nearly sweeps her away It's a wonderful world
As the buildings fall down
And you quicken your step
'til your feet leave the ground
And you're soaring above
All the sorrow below
And you're falling in love
With those you don't know And your heart feels so wide
And your heart fills so strong
It was never a place
That you felt you belonged It's a wonderful world
Full of wonderful things
And the people fall down
And abandon their dreams (I hear him, he's talking out loud
Sometimes he whistles while walking
How could he know any better?
I weep for him, I weep for him now) It's a wonderful world
It's a real crying shame
'cause she's hurting herself
In a violent way
And there's people she knows
That won't even try
And they're trapped in their lives
Feeling terrified
And it's in times like these
That she promised to call
But the scale of our love
Is diminished and small It's a wonderful world
And she doesn't know why
She wakes up each day
And continues to cry (He's sleeping his troubles away
He's finding it too hard to bear
I'm with him every step of the way

I weep for him, I weep for him now)It's a wonderful world
And you take and you give
And the sun fills the sky
In the space where you live

Songwriters

SAWYER, PHILPublished by

Lyrics Â© EMI Music Publishing, Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., Kobalt
Music Publishing Ltd., Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>