MADE IN HEIGHTS

Don't know whether it was real or a dream
The difference in what you say and what you mean
What you mean you don't really know
I'm losing touch with the physical
I'm showing up in the future like I've been here before
Ain't that a story though
Like you ain't even know
Somebody switching the digits on my Casio

I hear the bells I hear the wind
I hear a song in my heart again
In the tenderness moves all things
Like a poltergeist in the streets

It's a silly rush that I used to get
Singing Billie or reading Vonnegut
I could teleport to the stars
Kinda strange that I'm all alone

Cause you really hold me down like that Cause you really know what's down like that
Like the universe is singing a song
Hoo Hoo Hoo
Do you feel it when you write like that?
Do you feel it cause you're down like that?
Like the universe is singing a song
Hoo Hoo Hoo

It's just a story though
Is it a story though?
I can't tell if it happened cause it felt impossible
Don't know whether it was real or a dream
Imagination playing tricks on me

Now tell me what you know
Is this a story or
An allegory for the racket knocking at my door?
What's the difference if it's real or a dream?
Imagination playing tricks on me

What's the difference in my love or scheme?
The difference in what you say what you mean?
What you mean you don't really know?
I'm losing touch with the physical
I'm showing up in the future like I've been here before
Ain't that a story though?
Like you ain't even know
Somebody switching the digits up on my Casio
Don't know whether this is real or a dream
Imagination playing tricks on me
