Disco

Crossfade

You would give it all up in an instant
I bet you'd torch your house with your own hands
You'd let me break your back so you could lie in it
And never get up, never get up from itYou're back into that smack do you know you act
Just like a whore beggin' for crack or a sack

You think you revolutionize with every breath you take You bring me downDoes anybody know, who the fuck you are?

Does anybody care, how the fuck you are?You're wasted now and you're gettin' on down with the disco

You're wasted now and you think you want to leave but you don't go

You're wasted now and your pants have been soiled but you disco

You're wasted now and you think there was a point but you don't knowYou would take us all down with you If you would stab me in the back with your own hands

Never turn around to see if I'm okay

I'll always get up, get up in your faceYou're one of the people everybody just loves to hate

Just a person everybody else loves to blame

You think we care well every breath you take

Just brings us downDoes anybody know, who the fuck you are?

Does anybody care, how the fuck you are? You're wasted now and you're gettin' on down with the disco

You're wasted now and you think you want to leave but you don't go

You're wasted now and your pants have been soiled but you disco

You're wasted now and you think there was a point but you don't knowSo what was your point?

What was your point? PointYou bring it back for me

Those things I thought had left me

That hate that greed that bleeds me

Become the speed that feed meYou're wasted now and you're gettin' on down with the disco

You're wasted now and you think you want to leave but you don't go

You're wasted now and your pants have been soiled but you disco

You're wasted now and you think there was a point but you don't know

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/