

Hole In Your Soul

Abba

You feel bad, let me tell you, we all get the blues
Sometimes life is a burden, way down in your shoes
When it's bad, worse, worst
(And when you're feeling so bad) And you think you're cursed
(And you've got it sad)
Well, if there's one thing for the better
That can turn you loose There's gotta be rock 'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
There's gotta be rock 'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul My friend Sam is a chauffeur, Annie goes to school
Jerry works at the office, Sue lies by the pool
But on all weekends
(Together again) When I meet my friends
(I wanna see them now)
And we're lookin' 'round for the action
Ewe sure play it cool There's gotta be rock 'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
There's gotta be rock 'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul ABBA, you paint your world and use all colors
ABBA and then you find it all comes out too bright
You know it's only a lie
ABBA, the songs you sing are too romantic
ABBA and when you want the truth They only spit in your eye
Oh yeah, they're only tellin' you lies
Oh yeah, there's gotta be rock 'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul You feel bad, let me tell you, we all get the blues
Sometimes life is a burden, way down in your shoes
When it's bad, worse, worst
(You know you're feeling so bad) And you think you're cursed
(And you've got it sad)
Well, if there's one thing for the better
That can turn you loose There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul

There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
There's gotta be rock'n roll
To fill the hole in your soul
