Generosity

Mirah

Remember we held you, our bodies pressed against you
We required nothing more than what you'd provided for
The rings, they tell me how sickness befell you
And all the wrongs we dealt thee in spite of your generosityIt was all of my energy, more than I wanted to give
I am empty, I won't give moreAm I still invited to stay? I've worn my welcome
There was more before I came, we've eaten unrestrained
But now these green fruits will remain sour
These clouds we've made cannot make rainI gave you all of my energy and you took it without thanks
You once showed such promise but now I won't give moreI won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want moreI won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give moreI won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more, we just want more
I won't give more
