Technophobia

Carnivore

You fear change and all that's new stand in the way of progress like primitive man afraid of fire 'till he explored it's many uses The power of the atom at our disposal yet it is called unsafe nuclear energy so clean and pure your ignorance is a disgrace Do not resist
it is your destiny have we not all become the children of technology Holding your fate in a magnetic grip of all your irrational fears the shadow of machinery cast upon the flesh of man blood, sweat, and gears the robots of dawn offsprings the industry spot you in the cobalt blue light one fell swoop and you've become a memory away with your intrusive life Into the reactor!
You worship a dead man hung with nails only a fool would die for the sins of humanity on your knees before electronics lets replace this religious insanity tear down the churches instead on the ground build there the holy reactors give us the children science and math in place of bibles and pastors You bleeding heart liberals who oppose the Nuclear Regulatory Commission must be compelled to retire you serve only as obstacles and should be used to fuel the nuclear pyre
