

Mary Jane

Death By Unga Bunga

Did she ever find someone?
Someone who could hold her tight just to make it through the night,
make it feel alright.

Does she know she saved my life?
Baby gave me hopes and dreams I'll defend again and again.
Why did it have to end?

Like stars on the clearest night, you'll see a light shine in her eyes
that never dies.
When I'm blue all I do is think of you and my heart goes pumping faster than a freight train.
I dream that you'll come back again.

You've been around, glad I found you, please don't let me down, down, down.
Believe in every word I say, I love you more than anything,
Mary Jane.

Did she ever find her way?
When she ran away from heartaches and pain and left me astray.
I'll never be the same.

Now she's gone and I hope she knows everything I thought we were I was wrong, my mind was a blur, still I think of her.

Like stars on the clearest night, you'll see a light shine in her eyes
that never dies.
When I'm blue all I do is think of you and my heart goes pumping faster than a freight train.
I dream that you'll come back again.

You've been around, glad I found you, please don't let me down, down, down.
Believe in every word I say, I love you more than anything.

When I'm blue all I do is think of you and my heart goes pumping faster than a freight train.
I dream that you'll come back again.

You've been around, glad I found you, please don't let me down, down, down.
Believe in every word I say, I love you more than anything,
Mary Jane.
