

Cell

Rumsfield

I want to flee
A pause from the dim
Where are the thought that I saved?
Trapped in an old silent filmThey runned the usual tests
 Tiny, tiny veins
 Yet flow so constant and strong
I saw my life in redThey'll never forget
 These cells of mine
 How can they forgive
That I figured the code they carriedI want to flee
 A pause from the dim
 He gave me a stone
 And I went to sleep
