

I Think I've Had Enough

Gary Allan

All the days that ended well into tomorrow
All the times I couldn't lay it on the line
This old conscience that I could never follow
I hate to say it but I wish it wasn't mine
All the broken hearts that didn't see it comin'
All the tears that should have never hit the floor
All the lookin' back but mainly all the runnin'
All these reasons I'm standin' at your door
I think I've had enough, this time I'm givin' in Without you it's too rough, so I'm standin' here again
I finally realize, it's love that never dies
And I'm really not that tough, no I'm really not that tough
I think I've had enough
Life is gonna be a circus, rain or shine
Rides did always make me nervous
So if I'm gonna ride the Ferris wheel
I'll need your hand in mine
I've think I've had enough, this time I'm givin' in Without you it's too rough, so I'm crawlin' back again
I've finally realize, it's love that never dies
And I'm really not that tough, no I'm really not that tough
I think I've had enough
I'm really not that tough
I think I've had enough, think I've had enough

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>