

Demolition (Shepherds Bush Empire 2007)

Patrick Wolf

Since I met you, this house has started to decay And every wall that once was clean, has turned a shade of grey. So much to rescue, so much you just can't understand
Now the streets are dark and empty, and the problems in our hands. I can't leave you, see back home my house is falling down.
I can't leave you, and back home my house is falling down. Since I met you, my basement has started to bleed
The floors are all collapsing, still I'm begging to be free
