

Seasick

Something for Kate

you make it look so easy you seem to fit inside your own skull so comfortably but i haven't been myself lately and thank you
the pressure has been all mine as i wait for my pulse to catch up with me if i could leave here today then i would if i could change my face and my name then i would if i could run to some technicolour place then i would if i could learn from my mistakes then i would the lights come back on and what has my imagination done for me lately i sit in this chair concentrating on a crack in the ceiling and thank you, thank you
the pressure has been all mine as i wait for my pulse to catch up with me if i could see with your eyes then i would (repeat first chorus) you make it look so easy you make me seasick if i could leave here today then i would if i could run then i would if i could learn then i would if i could fly then i would
