Fiction

The xx

Fiction when we're not together
Mistaken for a vision, something of my own creation
I wake up alone, with only daylight between us
Last night the world was beneath us, tonight comes, dear love
We'll be torn apart by the break of day
You're more than I can believe whatever come my way
Fiction when we're not together
Mistakin' for a vision, something of my own creation
Come via light, why do I refuse you?
Cause if my fear's right, I risk to lose you
And if I just might, wake up alone
Bring on the night
Fiction when we're not together
Mistakin' for a vision, something of my own creation
And it's certainly how am I to tell?
I know your face all too well, still I wake up alone
Fiction when we're not together
