

Leave It Alone

Cash L3wis

[Intro: Woman]

Hey so, I know

We're not friends anymore

But, I was hoping you missed me by now

But I guess you don't so

We are going a full six months

Which is very annoying

But, if you have a change of heart

I was feeling an In N Out run

And I wanted to come get you

Ok well, Bye[Intro: Answering Machine]

End of message[Verse 1: CASH L3WIS]

Growing up you know I needed you, I believed in you

But everything was more important than me seeing you

At first a crush is all you were & nothing more

But society told you, I wasn't one to fall for - I mean

You were the cheerleader, I was the class clown

You were from up state, I was from down town

Not literally, but figuratively speaking

Two different social classes co existing, while seeking

The same companionship in one another that they yearned for

But you were too afraid to learn more

Too afraid to leave your friends, even though they put you down

& made you feel like nothing, like a queen without a crown

So I moved on, but I felt it when you looked at me

Trapped inside a web of emotional misery

And as we worked wizardry in ceramics, it was so clear to see

That we were growing closer, when we shouldn't be[Chorus: CASH L3WIS]

I want this (this), & you want that (that)

So I push you (you), & you push back

We fight (fight), fuss (fuss), yell (yell), cuss (cuss)

But, we should leave it alone

Leave it alone

We should leave it alone

Leave it alone

We should leave it alone[Verse 2: CASH L3WIS]

As we physically grew, our friendship did too

It was obvious I still had a thing for you

You would date and so would I, you would break up and then cry

And I tried to be there, ride or die
But you with these other guys, got up under my skin
Cuase' I knew they wanted to fk you and c*m on your chin
Just to kick you out of the house when they're done with the bone
I would imagine you alone, on the car ride home like
Smeared makeup, holding back tears
Holding back the fact that you've been doing this for years
Making bad decisions, cause you listen to your peers
So you're fighting with your heart, and you're running from your fears
& I base, this vivid premonition from afar
So I am not assuming what I said is what you are
It's an educated guess on what is running through your mind
As we travel through this hell that we designed[Chorus: CASH L3WIS][Verse 3: CASH L3WIS]
When you finally wanted me, I was bullheaded
I took the credit for bedding you then I jetted
After getting you, instead of defending you I offended
I didn't preconceive it though the pain was unintended
But in my own defense, I was waiting for you for years
Waiting for you to see that what you're looking for is here
But all the time I waited, you continued to ignore
Even though you fell for me, so many years before
So when you came a knockin' I was angry and done with it
And when you said you missed me, all I heard was get it
And so I hit it just so I could say I did it
Subconsciously collecting time invested I admit it
We committed, different things at different times
And no ones innocent, we just committed different crimes
But all this back and forth is tiring, I'm not gunna lie
It's time to leave it alone and say goodbye, peace[Chorus: CASH L3WIS]
