

Hina

Afatia Thompson

Those eyes burn holes into the starry night
And when her sleepy eyes are open wide
You can fairly dance beneath her lightAnd I'd love to get to know the natives
But I'm only flesh and blood
She'll share your joys but not your sorrows
Mistress of the coming floodHina, cool upon the silent sea
Hina, isn't she the moon queen?
Hina, whisperin', in my dreams
You must come back to meAnd the tides rise, distant sigh falls on deaf ears
Vision makes you every inch a king
King for a million yearsAnd she loves you when you're leavin'
And she'll leave you if you stay
She says,"Don't tell me that you love me
You'll hate me for hearin' it once I drift away"Hina, I can hear you softly cry
Hina, your storms and lullabies
Hina, I'll whisper in your dreams
Till you come back to meCome back but she will never stay
Come back and you must never wait
Never wait, never wait, never waitHinaCome back but she will never stay
Come back and you must never wait
Never wait, never waitHina
