She Knows

Bobby Capri

Up, up and away she goes
Now I know that I know she knows
Could I want to live a lie?
Well, neither will I, if she still try to try
But remarkably my son
All my work is done
Wouldn't surprise me to see her go
She would like me to know she knows
And I'm almost sure
I was absolutely nothing before
Now I'm so, so much more
The one word that describes the past
I'm pretty much possessed
We are the reason, I suppose
And we've spoken, so I know she knows
That what's one to sacrifice
When you live more than twice
Or what I bet it's nice
Gonna be just like you I'm giving my life too
No, other woman would wear your clothes
And it goes without saying
She knows, she knows
