

Everyday Things

Children of Nuggets

It's everyday things
Like coffee to go
Watching your mouth move through the words
Like a million times before
I'm watching the rain
Just to see how it falls
Watching the light fade from your eyes
As we starts to numb
It's everyday things
Time stands still
There's blood on my fingertips
Do you feel the chill
And then the waves come crashing
I can feel the weight of water
I can hear the angels singing
They're laughing yeah they're laughing at us
Day by day and it's moment after moment
I can hear the people singing
They're laughing yeah they're laughing at us now
Before it gets light
Before we're undone
Before all the white noise takes us over
Before they can speak

All crowded around
Before all their wrong words take us over
And then the waves come crashing
I can feel the weight of water
I can hear the angels singing
They're laughing yeah they're laughing at us
Day by day and it's moment after moment
I can hear the people singing
They're laughing yeah they're laughing at us now
It's everyday things
Like coffee to go
Like watching your mouth move through the words
Like a million times before
It's everyday things
When time stands still

There's blood on your finger tips
Do you feel the chill
