

Not Quite Love

Eleanor McEvoy

It isn't quite love, it isn't quite romance
But what ever it is, it's worth a chance
And if we close our eyes we can always pretend
If it's not love that's not the endIt isn't quite love, I cannot deny
But still here it is, it's worth a try
And if I expected more, life doesn't work that way
So if it's not love that's quite okayHow often have we cried for love that died?
Our tumbled pride on the floor
So let's take care, of our affair
And let's not dare ask for moreIt isn't quite love, it isn't quite romance
Still, here it is, it's got to be worth a chance
Let's close our eyes, let's pretend
It's not quite love, you're quite a friend

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>