

The Looking Glass

Dream Theater

I would not expect you felt alone in standing north
Better to rise above the clouds Then be a stranger in the crowd
All that you protected doesn't matter anymore
Rather be stripped of all your pride
Than watch your dreams be cast aside You are caught up in your gravity
Glorifying stardom
Singing your own praise You live without shame
You're digging up a gold mine
Standing on the sidelines
Watching through the looking glass You are not content with being nameless and unknown
Trying to rise above the fray
Eager to give it all away Some will not admit that 15 minutes have expired
Too much attention much too soon
Don't see you walking on the moon You are caught up in your gravity
Bathing in the spotlight
Imitating fame You live without shame
You're digging up a gold mine
Standing on the sidelines
Watching through the looking glass You are caught up in your gravity
Glorifying madness
Singing your own praise You live without shame
You're digging up a gold mine
Standing on the sidelines
Watching through the looking glass You live without shame
You're digging up a gold mine
Standing on the sidelines
Watching through the looking glas

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>