

Each Season Changes You

Rhonda Vincent

Like the weather your heart changes with each season
Springtime, summer, fall and winter too
Though I know I'll never understand the reason
I still wonder why each season changes you
In the springtime you're found me like a flowers
And your love grew warmer with the summer sun
Came the fall and I can see your love was changing
Broke my heart to see what the wintertime had done
Like the weather your heart changes with each season
Springtime, summer, fall and winter too
Though I know I'll never understand the reason
I still wonder why each season changes you
Came the spring again you said that you were sorry
That the summer brought a golden memory
Came the fall and then I could see your love was changing
And the winter brought the same old misery
Like the weather your heart changes with each season
Springtime, summer, fall and winter too
Though I know I'll never understand the reason
I still wonder why each season changes you
Like the weather your heart changes with each season
Springtime, summer, fall and winter too
Though I know I'll never understand the reason
I still wonder why each season changes you
I still wonder why each season changes you
