

Second Guessing

Sunny Sweeney

Came from a broken home
Listened to bad advice
I took too many pills
Married the wrong, the wrong guy But then I helped him leave
Struck out on my own
Until I met you
I made excuses for the damage done I could go back, rewind and play it again
And if I did it over would I wind up with you in the end?
Since the all the wrong choices are the reason I'm here today
I'm gonna stop second guessing my mistakes Came from a family torn Fought almost every night
Lived in a house you built
For the wrong, the wrong wife After the big divorce
You struck out on your own
Until you met me
You made excuses about where you came from You could go back, rewind and play it again
And if you did it over would you wind up with me in the end?
Since all the wrong choices are the reason you're here today
You've gotta stop second guessing your mistakes Cause if they never happened
We'd never be where we are
And if just for a second something had changed
I wouldn't be right here in your arms We could go back, rewind and play it again
And if we did it over would we end up with each other in the end?
As it turns out, together we're perfectly made
We've gotta stop second guessing
It was just a blessing
We've gotta stop second guessing
Our mistakes Came from a broken home
Came from a family torn
You've always got my back
Just like I've got yours
Just like I've got yours
Just like I've got yours
