

Hello Yellow

Backseat Goodbye

Hello, How are you?
I'm pretty sure we should be best friends.
I'll walk you to school and tell you "You look pretty." each new day.
We'll learn about philosophy by drawing on our arms,
And build ourselves an alright house made out of uno cards.

They'll say we're unconventional and maybe a little crazy.
We'll ask them what's wrong with that,
Yeah, We'll ask them what's wrong with that.

Hello, How are you? I'm pretty sure we should be best friends.
I'll walk you to the store,
And buy you fancy clothes and shiny pins.
We'll learn about biology by taking off our clothes,
And buy some yellow spraypaint to make a yellow brick road.

They'll say we're three dimensional and maybe a little lazy.
We'll ask them what's wrong with that,
Yeah, We'll ask them what's wrong with that.

Hello, How are you? I'm pretty sure that we should be best friends.
I'll walk you to the ocean,
And build you a castle of sand to live in.
We'll learn about geography by sleeping in the grass.
Our bodies'll twitch to wake us up when we fall asleep too fast.

They'll say we're unbelievable and maybe a little trendy.
We'll ask them what's wrong with that,
Yeah, We'll ask them what's wrong with that.
Hello, How are you? I'm pretty sure you're pretty much all I need
