

The Observer

Haggard

I did not feel obliged to believe that the same god who has endowed us sense, reason and intellect has intended us to forego their use So all the stars
Will guide us on our way
The Sextant as a leader
Has duration for all days Look at the amazing sky
In long and profound discoveries
With a strong and a clear mind he's encrypting
Secrets of astronomy In endless nights
The Italian observes the sky
This publications will change the world Galileo Galilei Only what my eyes will see, I will believe!
Day and night - seperated by the light In Pisa he's required
To teach the theory
That the stars and all the planets
Revolve around the earth
But he believed
In a different truth
The heleocentric one
Proposed by Kopernikus
A new age had begun The stolen sun
Makes their fear rise
And man had sacrificed
The moon is the reason why Look at the amazing sky
In long and profound discoveries
With a strong and a clear mind he's encrypting
Secrets of astronomy In endless nights
The Italian observes the sky
This publications will change the world Galileo Galilei And all the servants of the cross - they will deny
Will deny the starlight In Pisa he's required
To teach the theory
That the stars and all the planets
Revolve around the earth
But he believed
In a different truth
The heleocentric one
Proposed by Kopernikus
A new age had begun

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>