

All Those Days Are Gone

Jump, Little Children

All those days are gone
So she falls asleep every night just before dawn
And closes her eyes
As the sun starts to rise
'Cause all of those days are gone Sometimes she pretends
The sun it has finally begun to come to an end
Luminous nights
Of lonely streetlights
Sometimes she likes to pretend [Chorus]
She said that everybody wants to be here
Here where there's no one else around
Pull down all the shades
And try to forget how all of the memories fade
Memories that bleed
A curtain bright red
Time to pull down the shades [Chorus] All those days are gone
As far as the stars are away from the midday sun
Memories so bright
In a spinning twilight
But all of those days are gone [Chorus] I'll trade the moon for the sun
But this feeling for no one
She said that everybody wants to be here [Chorus]
