Ghost In A Machine (The Adventures of Bobby Ray)

Bob

Tell me where am I supposed to go?
And who am I supposed to believe.
If only you knew what I knew.
Then you could see just what I see.So I grab my bags and go, as far away as I can go.
Cause everything ain't what I used to know.
And I try to hide,
But I just can't hide no more.
There's nothing worse than feeling like a ghost.You say I look fine,
If only you knew what's on my mind.
You'd see a whole different side,
I couldn't show you even if I tried.
I must have got lost in time
When I found out I was only free to be,
Wherever I want to be.Some say I'm out of sight,
How ironic and that we're all so blind.
If you could open up your eyes,
You could see what I couldn't describe.
And then, you'd see the signs,
And then your soul would be set free,
And then you'd be released.So I grab my bags and go, as far away as I can go.
Cause everything ain't what I used to know.
And I try to hide,
But I just can't hide no more.
There's nothing worse than feeling like a ghost.Tell me where am I supposed to go.
And who am I supposed to believe.
If only you knew what I knew.
Then you could see. (Hey)So I grab my bags and go, as far away as I can go.
Cause everything ain't what I used to know.
And I try to hide,
But I just can't hide no more.
There's nothing worse than feeling like a ghost.And I'm terrified, like I've seen a U-F-O.
Cause everything ain't what I used to know.
(ain't what I used to know)
And I try to hide (try to hide)
But I just can't hide no more.
There's nothing worse than feeling like a ghost.(I go)
(A U-F-O)
(And I'm so tired of hiding,
I've been running, I've been trying, to get away, to get away)So I grab my bags and go, as far away as I can go.

Cause everything ain't what I used to know.
And I try to hide,
But I just can't hide no more.
There's nothing worse than feeling like a ghost.
