Away

Strung Out

underneath the moon in a place far away i know a place where we can run away. if you belive in me and you let me lead the way. i take your pain, i'll wish it all away. so far away. i'll take you by the hand, tell you never to fear in a world where we can be one so far away from here we'll kiss the sky together amoung the stars we will play they'll never ever find us in our castle, so far away well i just can't seem to forget the places that i've been why don't you help me understand the things i really fear when the words, they never come out right and the things you say never mean a thing thing, when you look me straight in the eye and say everything's alright.
