Nobody Really Knows

Ilse DeLange

If we could look down from above
Would we see constellations off
You and me revolving ?round
Our own livesAre we like stars, set in our way
Only to fall and burn one day
Do we shine, not knowing
Our own lightWhat is forever
When every sky shows
As soon as one light ?s out
Another one glows
All of us wonder where do we go
Is it dark, is it light, nobody really knowsWhen we wish upon a star
For our souls to meet again not far
Does it come true or is it just
A nursery rhyme
And when my time on earth is done
Is a shooting star what I become
Was an impression made, or do I just fade
From your mind
