Halo

Deep Blue Something

Souls suffer the landscape In shrouds of dew, as ghosts The eternity is for searching But a certain dissension growsI've seen them wander Voices raised in prayer Consorting with whisper They curse the ones not thereIf you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?I know I'm not your first one But I pray I'll be your last I've never seen you cry before But I know that I'll make you laughI know and you know, you've heard this all before These arms are for holding on This heart won't stray from homeIf you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?I know, I know, I know God tell me, where's my Halo?If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without? If you didn't want this and I didn't need it Then how has this interest become an addiction? If you didn't want it, then why can't you do without?
