

The Weight Of The World

Soledad Brothers

Keep a light on those you love
They will be there when you die
    Baby, there's no need to fear
    Baby, there's no need to cry
    Every little piece in your life
        Will add up to one
        Every little piece in your life
Well, it means something to someone
    You've fused my broken bones
        Back together and then
        Lift the weight of the world
        From my shoulders again
        Every little piece in your life
        Will add up to one
        Every little piece in your life
It will mean something to someone
    Every little piece in your life
        Will add up to one
        Every little piece of your life

Will mean something to someone
    You touch my face
    Scarred with spurs in my ear
        There are tears in my eyes
        Love replaces fear
        Touch my face
    Scarred with spurs in my ear
        There are tears in my eyes
        Love replaces fear, fear
        Every little piece in your life
        Will add up to one
        Every little piece in your life
Will mean something to someone
    Every little piece in your life
        Will add up to one
        Every little piece of your life
Will mean something to someone

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>