Radio Fragile

Nanci Griffith

We all said you'd never make it
'Cuz you had that fragile heart
And you were odd within the ways of the social
You through a caution to us allAnd now when the late night drinkers
Gather for their falls
Someone says they've seen you out there
Laughing at us allYou mourned the cause of discontent
With those who couldn't loose the dark
From the broad of daylight to half spent stars
Just waiting dusk to fallTell me, what the hell were you saying?
Was there a point to it all?
Oh, did they really see you out there?
Laughing at us allIs there anybody out there?
Is there anybody out there?
Oh, were you really out there
Laughing at us all?The midnight boy from Minnesota
Shut you down and stole the show
They say that you were bitter in your anguish
'Cuz it was you they ought to holdYou wore your causes on your sleeve
Like a Beacon wears the dark
It's only right you should be out there
Laughing at us allNow you are only dust for art
You're a shadow to recall
For all of those late night drinkers
In their ragged lonely barsAnd we all said you'd never make it
'Cuz you had that fragile heart
Now, all our hearts you held are wasted
You're out there laughing at us allIs there anybody out there?
Is there anybody out there?
Oh, were you really out there
Laughing at us all?Is there anybody out there?
Is there anybody out there?
Oh, were you really out there
Laughing at us all?
