

Are You Willing

Flotsam and Jetsam

Are you willing?

Let's go If you had a cure for the epidemic of today

Would you hold it for ransom or give it all away?

Will you be willing to do what's right when proven wrong?

Will you be swept away or will you come along? Are you willing? The trend is now searching for the mighty

Midas touch

Walking on a broken leg and you can't find a crutch

If you find the missing piece the answers of a lasting peace

You have found that nothing's ever changed Are you willing?

Are you willing? Yell out to the world echo never comes

I look into myself to see how color runs

If you knew what I know do you think we all should share

Everybody's got a cross to bear Ask and ask the same old riddle

My finger's in my ears touch in the middle

The trick's been played, life's sleight of hand

Answers come so slowly, no matter the demand Are you willing to let logic go?

Are you willing to get what you don't know?

Are you willing to let logic go?

Are you willing to get what you don't know? Are you willing?

Are you willing? Go ahead and fantasize a calm in your own mind

You've got to let go to get a piece that really binds

Scratch the itch scratching at the heart

Use the soul's glue to keep from coming all apart Out of your head when emotions start to think

Let feelings flow hard bring yourself to the brink

Refilled your bags with what we don't talk about

The questions the answers drown yourself in doubt Are you willing to let logic go?

Are you willing to get what you don't know?

Are you willing to let logic go?

Are you willing to forget what you don't know? To get what you don't know

To forget what you don't know

To forget what you know, what you know

What you don't know
