Same Old Heartache

Mountain Heart

Every morning I wake up
In the dark I lay
Waiting for the rising sun
Praying for a change

I still hear you call my name
Your touch still haunting me
My lost soul is locked in a cage
Bound by a memory

Different day, same old heartache
Like a curse that I can't break
Is there hope for me tomorrow
Lord will I drown in this sorrow
And it pours when it rains
And I just don't know how much more I can take
Different day same old heartache

By the time the sunlight fades
Shadows start to crawl
I can't see my cold weary face
Written on the wall

Different day, same old heartache
Like a curse that I can't break
Is there hope for me tomorrow
Lord will I drown in this sorrow
And it pours when it rains
And I just don't know how much more I can take
Different day same old heartache

One more teardrop
One more heartbeat
One more chance to pray
For a sign to guide me through
So I won't have to face

Different day, same old heartache
Like a curse that I can't break
Is there hope for me tomorrow

Lord will I drown in this sorrow
And it pours when it rains
And I just don't know how much more I can take
Different day same old heartache
Like a curse that I can't break
And it pours when it rains
And I just don't know how much more I can take
Different day, same old heartache

Lyrics submitted by Samdaman.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/