

Say Something Now

Stuart A. Staples

There's no one outside it's just the wind blowing trees
Nothing there

just the sound of guilty leaves
You can feel the cold inside
The rising moon
Looking down like a broken sun
Shining bright

So we can see what we've become
There is nowhere to hide inside
Why won't you say something now
Don't leave me hanging, cut me down

I miss the fire that was once in your eyes

Well come on and say something now
I close my eyes

I see the ghosts you keep within

Once I made them disappear

You know I did

And did I leave you all alone?
Come on and talk to me now

Or forever hold your peace

It's all got so heavy

Gonna bring us to our knees

Come on and say something now
Say something

Say something

Say something now
Say something

Say something

Say something now...
