Drifting Memories

Amorphis

How does it feel, blessed to receive
Be modest and forgiving
How does it feel, you can try to hate me
But you're only hurting yourselfDrifting in your shady memories
Where to go when sorrow breeds
Let the fear run throughBreathe in the black and stifling air
All those words they disappear
No need to rest it's too early to dieYou don't have to say, why rue for that day
When you've opened up your eyes again
Now it's your fate, face your heartache
You wish to make it unrealDrifting in your shady memories
Where to go when sorrow breeds
Let the fear run throughBreathe in the black and stifling air
All those words they disappear
No need to rest it's too early to dieDrifting in your shady memories
Where to go when sorrow breeds
Let the fear run throughBreathe in the black and stifling air
All those words they disappear
No need to rest it's too early to dieToo early to die
Too early to

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/