

I Can Love a Woman

Al Kooper

The sun comin' through my window
Just to say that my day's begun
The smile that's upon my mirror
Lets me know that my loved one's come
And I am not so much a man
As I am one to understand a woman
I can love my woman
With a love that's deeper than a river
Give her chills and I make her shiver
I can love my woman
If I cry it's because I miss her
I can't wait til my day is through
And if there's just a subtle hint of night time
There's so much that I got to do
Every day is a new day
When I've got to win the love again of a woman
I can love my woman
Strung inside a deep caress
Give her everything and nothing less
I can love my woman
I'd be lost in a world of nothin'
Without my love beside me there
And I can see that her eyes are smilin'
Through the strands of her raven hair
And I am not so much a man
As I am one to understand a woman
I can love my woman
With a love that's deeper than a river
Give her chills and I make her shiver
I can love my woman
I can love my woman
