

Saccharine Arcadia

InMe

As I open my eyes I look up to the skies
I look over and see where I think you should be I was a fool once before when you knocked on my door
I was a fool to ignore you (now I implore to explore you) If this means something to you and it means something to me
Why do we linger here when it is clear there's nothing to fear? (Hear, hear)
Three cheers for sweet patience, good things come to those who wait (and I'm glad I waited for you) Saccharine arcadia inside those auburn eyes
A wild goose worth chasing across the storm-ridden skies
I haven't come here to tame you, I've journeyed just to proclaim to you (I'm yours) I may be nobody's fool but I don't believe that you're cruel and if we hold on tight and close our eyes we just might find a trust so pure
If I fall flat on my face I'll still be glad (that I waited for you) Saccharine arcadia inside those auburn eyes
A wild goose worth chasing across the storm-ridden skies
I haven't come here to tame you, I've journeyed just to proclaim to you (I'm yours) I'll try and I'll try, and if I fail I'll fail for you Swept me off my feet, sweetest descent I ever felt Warm rapture be dealt Don't listen to them, damsel, for they can't see or know
The lights across the moor are still aglow, I want you to know
The cream always rises to the top alike the apex of Lynmouth Caked and decorated with pure white snow Saccharine arcadia inside those auburn eyes
A wild goose worth chasing across the storm-ridden skies
I haven't come here to tame you, I've journeyed just to proclaim to you (I'm yours) Saccharine arcadia inside those auburn eyes
A wild goose worth chasing across the storm-ridden skies
I haven't come here to tame you, I've journeyed just to proclaim to you (I'm yours) I'll try and I'll try. Warm rapture be dealt
