

On the Run

Tea For Two

(S. Weber/M. Schumpelt/J.O. Soerup)

I
see the old man
see the child in front wondering'bout what's heaven and don't forget reality dream, feel it and fly away... where did you start
how could you forget
you heard the voice
you got this feeling you know we'll hurt you so join the cage and believe in what we said where did you come from
how could you forget
you're just a puppet so join the cage instead you're showing us feelings try to be a man
how could you forget, you're on the run where are those who prayed the lies where are those who get the prize where are those who named the prophets let me get out of here I'm sitting on the edge of a lake still watching that moon and the clouds still staring still smoking another cigarette and I know maybe I am a loser, oh, maybe I am the loser maybe I am - go!
