

A Sun a Sound

Great Northern

Let us forget your existence
The day we met, I will forget
On the other side of vacant life
The faces pass through And we never saw what we saw
Ever again The meters are too slow to know, to know
Our final thoughts, how far they got
And the simple things that we erase
With names that take their place And we never saw what we saw
Ever again Some things are so dangerous
The moments unexplained to us
To finally become aware
Everything you've ever seen is gone Some things are so dangerous
The moments unexplained to us
To finally become aware
Everything you've ever seen is Some things are so dangerous
The moments unexplained to us
To finally become aware
The most beautiful things you've ever seen will be gone
