

Baby Gotterdamerung

Monster Magnet

I read a book today
It made me think of a life I led
It seems so far away
But then I wouldn't call it dead I see a name or two
And the ghosts just start to roam
I had 'em locked away
It seems they've cut their own parole Now face the music, son
Some people live to remember when
But you're no storage space
You've lived a dozen lives since then So what would Modok do
If his memory got too full?
He'd find the power source
And then he'd pick what plugs to pull I looked in the mirror and somebody blew up
I turned on my TV and somebody blew up
I learned how to lie well and somebody blew up
I learned how to live true and somebody blew up My brain was still today
Just taking a little death
Just like the doctors say
I never get that kind of rest The movie's on again
They got me nullifying ghost
I'm better dead than red
I guess I'll never get off the boat I looked in the mirror and somebody blew up
I turned on my TV and somebody blew up
I learned how to lie well and somebody blew up
I learned how to live true and somebody blew up

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>