

Pride and Blurry Vision

Polar Lights

She ran away saying "I've had enough"

And all she ever wanted was somebody to love

She said, "Mama won't you please just listen to me? I'm tired of pretending what the world wants me to be"(yeah?)

In the corner now she can't decide

Victim to the reasons of a typical mind

They drove her world down into the deep

Suffocation's now the air that she breathes

For as the years ran by, she gave into bad addictions now she's living a lieLike a ghost nobody ever saw her
got blown away like a feather

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack no

for every second lost she's the one to blame

her clock stops tick-tock going down in flames

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack do you see now people what have we become?

With Pride and Blurry Visions living life on the run

We're living life on the run

We're living life on the run

I'm running away

I watch the clouds descend as I decay into the mirrorThe phone rings father answers the call

Little Casey never made it home

Misdirections led her to decide

She found the answer at the tip of the knife

For as the years ran by, she gave into bad addictions now she's living a lieLike a ghost nobody ever saw her
got blown away like a feather

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack no

for every second lost she's the one to blame

her clock stops tick-tock going down in flames

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack
do you see now people what have we become?

With Pride and Blurry Visions living life on the run

We're living life on the run

We're living life on the run

I'm running away

I cloud out my patience till I dissipate into shadows;

The pride in our glory they all go away

Decay into mirrors they call out my name

Do you see what we've become

We're living life yeah on the runWe're living life on the run(We're living life on the run)

I caught the eyes of the winter haze(We're living life on the run)

Disappear into shadows that block out the sun(We're living life on the run)

We're living life on the run

I count my numbers in days

I count my numbers in days

Willful aggressions my house on display

Following motions got me stuck in a maze

You can choose to not believeLike a ghost nobody ever saw her

got blown away like a feather

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack no

for every second lost she's the one to blame

her clock stops tick-tock going down in flames

but now she can't turn back, her clock's ticking down like a heart attack

do you see now people what have we become?

With Pride and Blurry Visions living life on the runWe're living life on the run

We're living life on the run

I'm running away

I cloud out my patience till I dissipate into shadows;

The pride in our glory they all go away

Decay into mirrors they call out my name

Do you see what we've become

We're living life yeah on the run

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlrics.com/>