She's a Flier

Jason Rubero

Rising high above the ground
I tell you this girl can fly
Spirit wind blows through the trees
Lifting her higher

Higher than the sunken dreams
Which weigh me down
I could stare, facing my past
But she spins me around

And I face my future as I face her sky

She's high and she's low
Riding on her wild mood swings
She grows up, I say 'come down'
Don't let go of all your childhood things

All my eyes can see
Is all that you can be

Even the lightest girls in this world may one day drop
But I want you to fly, 'til gravity makes you stop

Even the lightest girls in this world may one day drop
But I want you to fly, 'til gravity makes you stop

Just remember -
If your wings get clipped, you can always walk

All my eyes can see
Is all that you can be
