Lonely's To The Bone

Aaron Pritchett

Lonely's To The BoneI took her keys, she took a cab
She made sure the front door slammed
Between the rain and the whiskey the whole thing was still a blurShe caught a plane to San Antone
I got that far then the trail went cold
Since then I haven?t heard a single word from her
Then I found out thatAll I?ve lost is all I want
And all I?ll ever need
And I realize the deepest cut
Can take a while to bleed
'cause suddenly it hit me that
She left me all alone
And leaving?s only skin deep
But lonely?s to the boneThe phone would ring once or twice
It?d be some number I don?t recognize
But nobody?s ever home when I call it backDoor?s unlocked, coffee?s on
The fire?s burnin? but she still ain?t home
Don?t know if I?ll ever learn to live with that
And I found out thatCHORUSOh, it would be so easy if Her memory?d just move on
And leaving?s only skin deep
But lonely?s to the boneLonely?s to the bone x3
