Wasted Breath

Tonya Mitchell

I don't wanna hear your stories
I don't wanna hear your lies
I don't wanna hear those made up alibisYou told me that you lived for me
You sounded so sincere
But now the pictures suddenly so clearAfter all that's been said and done
I should have been the only one
But every word from you is nothing more
Than wasted breathWhy did you tell me I could put my trust in you
Then turn around and tell me things you know ain't true
Why you trying to play me, boy, like I'm some fool
That's hard to just forgetYou're too busy trying to run a game on me
But now you can't remember what you said last week
Don't say another word 'cause baby now I see
It's only wasted breathI'm looking for some good reasons
I'm looking for the truth
But baby that's something I won't get from you'Cause now I see right through you
Your game is oh so weak
And you were better off when you didn't speakAfter all that's been said and done
I should have been the only one
How could every word be nothing more
Than wasted breathWhy did you tell me I could put my trust in you
Then turn around and tell me things you know ain't true
Why you trying to play me, boy, like I'm some fool
That's hard to just forgetYou're too busy trying to run a game on me
But now you can't remember what you said last week
Don't say another word 'cause baby now I see
It's only wasted breathI'm looking for some good reasons
I'm looking for the truth
But baby the only thing I get from you
Is wasted breathWasted time
Wasted tears on my pillow when I cried
Wasted days, wasted nights
Wasted dream that will never come to lifeWhy did you tell me I could put my trust in you
Then turn around and tell me things you know ain't true
Why you trying to play me, boy, like I'm some fool
That's hard to just forgetYou're too busy trying to run a game on me
But now you can't remember what you said last week
Don't say another word 'cause baby now I see
It's only wasted breathWhy did you tell me I could put my trust in you

Then turn around and tell me things you know ain't true
Why you trying to play me, boy, like I'm some fool
That's hard to just forgetYou're too busy trying to run a game on me
But now you can't remember what you said last week
Don't say another word 'cause baby now I see
It's only wasted breath
