

In Your Face

Ty Herndon

In your face now don't ignore me, what's your name and what's your story?
Is this empty chair here for me, girl, don't turn away
Something tells me you're a Libra, do they say you look like Reba
Hope I don't seem over eager in your face
In your face there's heartache, you can't hide it
And on your lips, love's left a bitter taste
In your eyes there's tears that don't need crying
And honey, I'm just trying to put a little smile in their place, in your face
In your face is my reflection, honey you ain't seen rejection
Let me tell you how she left me, laid my love to waste
Though I ain't no pickup artist, let me crash your pity party
Make you laugh and put a sparkle in your face
'Cause in your face there's heartache, you can't hide it
And on your lips, love's left a bitter taste
In your eyes there's tears that don't need crying
And honey, I'm just trying to put a little smile in their place, in your face
