

Come Home to Me

Alathea

Rise and fall, like the tide
My hand goes with your chest
Steady now, moon will pull
A slow and even breathOuta the blue, the storm rolls in
I see it in your eyes
Thunder strikes, but I will be
A place for you to hideYour heart rises and it falls just like the waves
The highest point is just before it breaks
I will light a candle for you welcoming
Baby, come home to meNight moves in
And you can't see, a star up in the sky
Let my voice anchor you
I promise the sun will riseYour heart rises and it falls just like the waves
The highest point is just before it breaks
I will light a candle for you welcoming
Baby, come home to meI am standing, on the shore
I am holding a light
I am standing, on the shore
I am holding a light
I am standing, on the shore
I am holding a light
I am standing, on the shore
I am holding a light
I am standing, on the shore
I am holding You're heart rises and it falls
Just before it breaks
I will light a candleYour heart rises and it falls just like the waves
The highest point is just before it breaks
I will light a candle for you welcoming
Baby, come home to meYour heart rises and it falls just like the waves
The highest point is just before it breaks
I will light a candle for you welcoming
Baby, come home to meBaby, come home to me
Baby, come home to me
