Bipolarity

Threering

She blames us all for her problems
As the world keeps turning
Deep inside, this bitter darkness
That the light won't penetrate
She can't see through the clouds that shroud her
Make believe is so much better than life
Everyone is out to get her
Everyone is out to get away from her insanityShe's in a race to find somebody
Someone to love her no matter what she's done
But there's one thing she never realized
It's come and gone in the blink of an eye
While she forces her needs down our throats
Relationships just twist and bleed
Until there's nothing left to salvage
Where will she turn when it comes crashing down
On her broken headWe are judged by the way we live our lives
And we know what will save us
Time after time
Some will say that Jesus saves, but this I know
If you can't help yourself, you're as good as dead...
You're as good as dead to me
