

Lyman's Hut

Matthew Wesley

Lyman's hut is just on the other side of the city, where there are no roads so there's no way to leave.
Silent dust on the hand rails settled there, when I was done with school, she was done with me. The pills seem weaker than the day we bought them.
Do you care if I'm alive?
I don't mind if this is salt or saline, cause it's the best part of the drive. She said "Matthew, I need something from the body".
When colors run together our lives just fell apart.
So I told you that I missed you and I even wrote this song, and it came straight from the heart and, I don't wanna be,
nothing more than the eye can't see,
and I don't wanna be, forgotten when I leave. So tell me that we just fell into the night.
It might be over but I think we'll be alright.
Keep in mind, that it's kinda like a brand new start.
Oh and if that is from the body, then this is from the heart. I wish life was like four years ago.
We all felt like children, important to someone.
In reality well we're just kids on a sidewalk,
we thought we'd never grow up till we melted in the sun, The pills seem weaker than the day we bought them.
Do you care if I'm alive?
I don't mind if this is salt or saline,
cause it's the best part of the drive. So tell me that we just fell into the night.
It might be over but I think we'll be alright.
Keep in mind, that it's kinda like a brand new start.
Oh and if that is from the body, then this is from the heart.
