

Already Gone

Bronwynne Brent

They say the pain behind my eyes -
Those black curtains -
I call a disguise.
They think they cover up my lies,
The ones I tell
To only myself.
I want to love you, but I can't.
The writing's on the wall,
But you can't see it yet.
'Cause, Baby, I'm already gone.
There's no talkin' to me 'bout what went wrong.
Baby, I'm already gone.
Guess I'm gonna leave you,
'Cause I don't need you.

I built these dreams on sand and clay.
I watched them tumble and melt away.
I know I'll build them back some day.
Maybe tonight. Maybe tonight.
'Cause, Baby, I'm already gone.
There's no talkin' to you.
I can't see through you.
Baby, I'm already gone.
Guess I'm gonna leave you,
'Cause I don't need you.

You watched me turn and walk away,
For one last time.
Won't you beg me to stay.
You led this wounded heart astray.
I'll just forget you,
Like I never met you.
'Cause, Baby, I'm already gone.
What' you gonna do now to carry on.
Baby, I'm already gone.
Guess I'm gonna leave you,
'Cause I don't need you.

Lyrics Submitted by Dave

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>