Valentino

Diane Birch

Well, I passed the wishing well and I threw my penny in
Sent a prayer on up above that you would come my way again
Yeah, I've seen some better days and in each on you were there
Running circles through the graveyard throwing daisies in the airOh, oh, Valentino
Oh, oh, my tears don't show
But oh honey they flowWell, I crossed the lakes and mountains, ended up in Hollywood
Playing piano in that pink hotel just like you said I would
I kept looking out my window hoping one day you would come
Going every shade of blue under that California sunOh, oh, Valentino
Oh, oh, my tears don't show
But oh honey they flowSo much for the promises
So much for them daisy chains
Oh, why carry all those heavy dreams
When the only one I really want is youOh, oh, Valentino
Oh, oh, my tears don't show
But oh honey they flowOh, oh, Valentino
Oh, oh, my tears don't' show
But oh honey they flow
Oh, honey they flow, flow, flow
